Quality Certification and Environmental Protection

Rigorous Quality Verification Creates Product Value

Since the Zeny's Quality Management System was ISO 9002 certified in 1994, we have successively become certified factories of UL, TUV, GS, JET, and SEMKO. In 2004, it included the Design elements and updated as ISO 9001 Certification. From supplier management, incoming materials, on production line, development verification and shipping inspection, Zeny strictly abides by the customer's specification requirements and regulations. Encourage ourselves with zero defect and scale our strength to new heights.

With the environmental protection policies of countries around the world towards making the earth's resources to grow and multiply without end, we can co-exist and co-prosper with the earth from generation to generation and the industry and life are all in the direction of reducing the burden.

Zeny has been strictly abiding by the ISO 14001 standards since it started building its first factory and also started zero discharge of industrial waste to the surrounding environment, strictly complying with government regulations. Zeny also introduced high-end equipment, to become the pioneering outpost and environmental protection benchmark on the topic of green environmental protection.
